I.A.11270/2022 (u/O XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC)

7. The present suit has been filed seeking permanent and mandatory injunction restraining trademark and copyright infringement, passing off, delivery up, rendition of accounts, damages and other reliefs. The Plaintiff - Mr. Akash Aggarwal is the sole proprietor of an entity operating under the mark/name 'V Tradition', which is engaged in the business of sale of clothing for women on various retail e-commerce platforms, such as 'Amazon', 'Meesho', 'Myntra', as also, that of Defendant No.1 - Flipkart. The details of the marks of the Plaintiff are set out below:

Trademark	App No.	App Date	STATUS
V TRADITION	4644238	07//09/2020	Pending
Realition	5258052	23/12/2021	Pending (Class 25)
- Pradicion	5337646	21102/2022	Pending (Class 25)

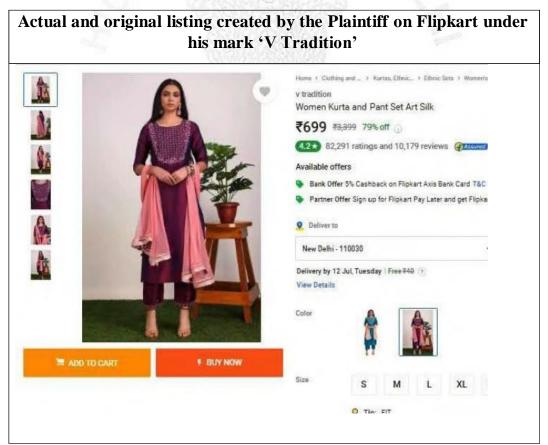

8. The case of the Plaintiff is that he uses the mark/name 'V Tradition' in respect of all garments manufactured and sold by him. The Plaintiff avers that he started manufacturing and selling his products under the mark/name 'V Tradition' since August, 2020, on the e-commerce platform - Flipkart. He claims that he has received more than, approximately, 2.5 lakhs orders from Flipkart itself, with 1.41 crores clicks. The Plaintiff's products under the mark 'V Tradition' have achieved a total sale of approximately Rs.18 crores on Flipkart itself, since December, 2020. It is submitted that the Plaintiff's products have more than 82,000 consumer reviews on Flipkart. On all the products sold by the Plaintiff, the mark 'V Tradition' is prominently visible on his product listings on Flipkart. The Plaintiff claims to be spending a substantial amount of money on the creation of garments for women, as also, on engaging women models who wear the garments made by the Plaintiff, and whose photographs are used for showcasing and promoting the Plaintiff's products on the e-commerce platforms.

9. In the present suit, the grievance of the Plaintiff against Flipkart is that the said platform is encouraging and allowing third-party sellers to 'latch on' and use the mark 'V Tradition', along with the photographs of the Plaintiff's products, on the said platform. By doing so, several third-party sellers which are not connected to the Plaintiff, are able to portray themselves as 'V Tradition' and ride on the popularity of the products and designs of the Plaintiff. Such third-party sellers also misuse the photographs created by the Plaintiff for his own products sold under the 'V Tradition' umbrella. An illustrative representation, of the actual and original product listing of the Plaintiff and product listings of third-sellers using photographs identical to that of the Plaintiff's product listings, is set out below:

z ... Ward were a

10. The Plaintiff has, thus, filed the present suit seeking reliefs against Flipkart from permitting third-party sellers to 'latch on' to his name and products. The prayers in the suit are for restraining Flipkart from allowing any person or party to portray itself and/or conduct its business on the website of Defendant No. 1 as 'more sellers' of goods offered for sale by the Plaintiff on his own product listings on the website of Defendant No. 1 under the Plaintiff's Trademarks and from enabling the unauthorised sellers from using the product images of the Plaintiff's product listings and name.

11. On the last date, i.e., 22nd July 2022, ld. Counsel for the Defendant had sought time to seek instructions from his client and the following order was passed:

4. The present suit has been filed by the Plaintiff seeking various reliefs including permanent and mandatory injunction restraining trademark infringement and passing off, etc against Defendant No.1- Flipkart Internet Private Limited and various John Doe sellers. The suit has been filed by the Plaintiff for the protection of its rights in the mark 'V Tradition' used in relation to clothing for women. It is the case of the Plaintiff that various sellers have unlawfully latched on to the product listings created by the Plaintiff on Flipkart platform as 'more sellers' of Plaintiff's products.

5. It has been brought to the notice of this Court by Mr. Chopra, ld Counsel for Defendant No.1 that there is a suit which is pending before the Commercial Court in Saket District Court on the same cause of action against Flipkart and seven other sellers.

6. Mr. Chopra, ld. Counsel, submits that while the said suit continues, the present suit would not be maintainable. Ld. counsel for the Plaintiff on the other hand submits that he would restrict the cause of action in the said suit only to the listings made by Defendant Nos. 2 to 8 on the Flipkart platform. If so, let a statement be made before the Commercial Court in this effect. On a query put to Mr. Chopra, ld. Counsel, as to how the process of 'latching on' and reflecting other unauthorised sellers `more sellers' works as technologically on the platform, he wishes to seek instructions.

7. List on 2nd August, 2022."

12. Submissions at the ad-interim stage have been made by both parties. Mr. Anshuman Upadhyay, ld. Counsel for the Plaintiff has placed certain documents on record to show how the process referred to as 'latching on'

and reflecting other unauthorised sellers as 'more sellers', is enabled on Flipkart. He explains that when a third-party seller wishes to place a listing on Flipkart, the Flipkart software itself suggests 'V Tradition' products as one of the most popular listings and 'Best-Sellers' and allows such thirdparty sellers to add various products under the Plaintiff's mark 'V Tradition' into their own listings along with the Plaintiff's product photographs, by way of the 'Opportunities' option under the 'Listings' tab on the 'Flipkart' website.

13. Ld. Counsel submits that there are various persons, who have been adversely affected by the said 'latching on' feature provided by Flipkart, which has resulted in loss of business to such small and medium entrepreneurs. Reliance is placed upon the affidavits filed by third-party sellers, who have also filed suits against Flipkart. The relevant portions of the said Affidavits have been extracted below:

Affidavit dated 25th July, 2022 filed by Mr. Uvais Ansari

I say that I suffered stress and huge loss due to 'latch on/more sellers' on my listings which were created under trademark Being left with no option, I filed a suit bearing CS(COMM) No.81 of 2022 titled as Tibra Collection Vs Flipkart Internet Private Limited and Ors before district court of Delhi and vide order dated 27.01.2022, ex-parte, ad-interim injunction was granted in my favour and against the Defendants whereby the Defendants were restrained from mapping/listing their products under my trademarks and copyrights on the website of Flipkart Relevant operative part of the aforesaid order is reproduced below "

Affidavit dated 27th July, 2022 filed by Mr. Mahboob Alam

I say that I suffered huge loss due to sudden 'latch on/more sellers' selling my products under my trademarks on my listings www.flipkart.com. Being left with no option, I filed a suit CS (COMM) No. 181 of 2022 titled as Mr. Mahboob Alam Vs. Flipkart Internet Private Limited and Ors before district court of Delhi and vide order dated 07.03.2022, ex-parte, adinterim injunction was granted in my favour and against the Defendants whereby the Defendants were restrained from mapping/listing their products under my trademarks and copyrights on the website of Flipkart Relevant operative part of the aforesaid order is reproduced below:...

Affidavit dated 25th July, 2022 filed by Ms. Rekha Nath

I say that I suffered huge loss due to unlawful activities of those 'latch on/more sellers'. Having left with no option, I filed a suit CS (COMM) No. 365 of 2022 titled Rekha Nath v. Flipkart Internet Private Limited and Ors before district court of Delhi and vide 25.05.2022, ex-parte, order dated ad-interim injunction was granted in my favour and against the Defendants whereby the Defendants were restrained from selling products under my trademarks and/or infringing my copyrights over my originally created paintings, on the website of Flipkart. Relevant operative part of the aforesaid Order is reproduced below:...

Affidavit dated 30th July, 2022 filed by Ms. Mamta

"2. I say that I am the Defendant No.6 in a suit titled as CS (Comm) No.365 of 2022 titled as Rekha Nath vs. Flipkart Internet Private Limited and Ors. Before district court of Delhi where vide order dated 25th May, 2022, an ex-parte, ad-interim injunction was granted against me for becoming 'More Sellers' under the brand 'Rainbow Arts' and Copyrights.

3. I say that I was a new seller on Flipkart. The way of becoming latch on seller/more seller and earning money from other's listings was shown to me by executives of Flipkart who guided and offered me to latch on to other sellers' listings which are doing good on their platform.

4. I say that I have realised my mistake and paid 50,000 to Plaintiff in the above case for settlement and an undertaking to not indulge in such act in future."

14. Ld. Counsel for the Plaintiff has also effected purchases by such thirdparty sellers, so as to show how he is able to purchase five identical-looking products (Kurtas), which are sold by third-party sellers under the mark 'V Tradition'. These products were purchased from third party sellers who were using identical photographs of the Plaintiff's model and the name 'V Tradition', displayed on their product listings. The Plaintiff has produced the said ladies' Kurtas purchased from such unauthorised sellers through the Flipkart platform. The invoices in respect of such purchases from third-party sellers have also been placed on record by the Plaintiff. One such invoice showing sale of products by a third-party seller trading as 'Narayani Fab', under the identical mark 'V Tradition', is set out below:

15. Mr. Nayar, ld. Senior Counsel appearing for Defendant No.1 -Flipkart, submits that the mark 'V Tradition' used by the Plaintiff is not registered, and hence, Flipkart has no method of checking as to whether the mark is entitled to protection, or not. However, without prejudice to the same, he submits under instructions, that insofar as the mark 'V Tradition' and the Plaintiff's product listings are concerned, Flipkart would take down the said listings, within 48 hours, upon the URLs for the same being supplied to Flipkart.

16. Heard ld. Counsels for the parties. The advent of e-commerce has created various challenges to the protection of IPR rights. An action for passing off, which was traditionally restricted to products having similar logos, marks, names, and labels, in the real world, now has a new dimension in the context of e-commerce.

17. E-commerce platforms provide an alternate platform to small and medium entrepreneurs to showcase their products and conduct their businesses in a profitable manner. However, certain features on these platforms can also cause damage to such entities and entrepreneurs. One such feature, as is clear from the present case, is the feature described as 'latching on' provided by the Defendant No.1 - Flipkart on its e-commerce platform. The said process of 'latching on', as illustratively placed on record by the Plaintiff, is set out below. To demonstrate this process, the Plaintiff admits to have used the account of a relative, Balagopala, on the Flipkart platform.

A perusal of the above slides shows that whenever a seller wishes to place some listings in a specific product category, a recommendation on the basis of the business conducted on its portal is given as to which are the 'Best Seller' products. The caption "Grow your business by 3x" along with specific data, is also projected in order to entice the new seller to 'latch on' to popular product listings. The said seller is then permitted to ADD the LISTING to his listing page. While giving this recommendation, the mark 'V Tradition', as also, the product photographs of the Plaintiff is permitted to be added by the third-party seller, without the permission or consent of the Plaintiff. It is, thus, clear that product listings of the Plaintiff are being permitted to be used along with the Plaintiff's brand name and image/s of the product created by the Plaintiff. The said brand name and photograph then becomes a part of the product listings of the third-party unauthorised seller who can then make similar looking products and sell them as though they originate from 'V Tradition'.

18. The fact that such a feature is made available is not even disputed by Flipkart. In the opinion of this Court, permitting a third-party seller to 'latch on', in this manner, to the Plaintiff's name/mark and product listings is nothing but 'riding piggy back' as is known in the traditional passing-off sense. It amounts to taking unfair advantage of the goodwill that resides in the Plaintiff's mark and business. In the context of e-commerce, this Court has no doubt that 'latching on' by unauthorised sellers results in and constitutes 'passing off' as known in the brick and mortar world. It is a mode of encashing upon the reputation of the Plaintiff which he has painstakingly built. The affidavits filed by the Plaintiff also need to be further looked into as this seems to be a recurring difficulty that IP owners appear to be facing.

19. On the basis of the demonstration before this Court today, and the submissions made, prima facie, the Flipkart platform is permitting otherthird-party sellers to 'latch on' to the best sellers in one particular segment of products, resulting in various third-party sellers misusing the Plaintiff's brand/mark.

20. This Court is satisfied that such a feature cannot be allowed to be used or offered, to the detriment of the owner of the brand or the person who has created the original product. Consent and authorisation of the brand owner and the listing owner would be required before such conduct by any seller is permitted. In the present case, a perusal of the physical products handed over to the Court after purchases having been made from identical thirdparty sellers, shows that while the products of the Plaintiff have the label 'V Tradition', none of the others have any product tag name. The product design, look and feel, as also, the documents which have been placed on record by the Plaintiff, clearly show that the Flipkart platform has allowed third-party sellers to 'latch on' to the Plaintiff's product listings which were featuring as 'Best Sellers', by way of the 'Opportunities' option. Accordingly, in order to protect the Plaintiff, his brand and the investment which the Plaintiff has made in his mark/name, this Court is of the opinion that any infringing third-party product listings would be liable to be taken down.

21. In the facts and circumstances of the present case, the Plaintiff has made out a prima facie case for the grant of an interim injunction against Flipkart. In the opinion of this Court, the balance of convenience lies in favour of the Plaintiff and irreparable injury would be caused to the Plaintiff if an interim injunction is not granted. Accordingly, till the next date of hearing, Flipkart, and all others acting for and on its behalf, shall stand restrained from allowing any third-party sellers from 'latching on' to the mark 'V Tradition' used by the Plaintiff or the Plaintiff's product listings under the mark/name 'V Tradition', so as to ensure that third-party unauthorised sellers are unable to misuse the name and product listings of the Plaintiff. Thus, Flipkart shall ensure that the 'latching on' feature is disabled qua the mark 'V Tradition' used by the Plaintiff till the next date of hearing. All such third-party sellers shall also stand restrained from

'latching on' to the product listings of the Plaintiff and misusing the product listings and mark/name 'V Tradition', for promoting their products which are not connected to the Plaintiff, in any manner.

22. According to the Plaintiff, there are 45 third-party sellers, who have already started using the Plaintiff's mark 'V Tradition', product listings and pictures. Let the URLs and any other available details of all such infringing third-party product listings be supplied to ld. Counsel for Flipkart, within two days. Upon receipt of the same, all the said product listings shall be disabled or taken down, within 48 hours.

23. Ld. Counsel for Flipkart shall also supply a list along with their contact details, of all the third-party sellers, who have availed of the 'latching on' feature in respect of the Plaintiff's mark/name 'V Tradition' and products sold under the said mark, to the ld. Counsel for the Plaintiff. The Plaintiff is at liberty to avail of his remedies, in respect of such parties, in accordance with law.

24. Reply to the present application be filed within two weeks. Let rejoinder thereto, if any, be filed within two weeks thereafter. The observations in this order are prima facie in nature and shall not bind the adjudication of the interim application, after pleadings are completed.

25. List before the Joint Registrar on 26th September, 2022.

26. List before the Court on 11th November, 2022.
